2. KLISSOURA stated that his visit to Greece was for the purpose of visiting the Albanian refugees here as well as to contact the Greek Government authorities to "discuss collaboration". KLISSOURA pointed out that he has had such contacts concerning collaboration with the Greek officials VATIOTIS and SPYRILIOS since 1946. He further declared that he went to Egypt in 1946 to meet King Zog on the instructions of the above named officials, in order to promote a policy of cooperation on the part the former King of Albania in line with the Greek policy which called for unity among the Albanian parties abroad before collaboration between the two countries could be discussed. When KAPSALIS was posted as Greek Ambassador to Rome, the plans were changed and the talks were interrupted. At that time, KLISSOURA states, all Albanian parties abroad had agreed on collaboration with Greece. Hasan DOSTI, now Chairman of the Free Albanian Committee, had many contacts with KAPSALIS, who restrained him from going to Egypt in order to continue talks with Zog. This uncertain policy followed by KAPSALIS was the reason which caused the break in the Balli Kombetar; the various extremists lost hope in the promises made by KAPSALIS and concluded that Greece did not want the friendship and collaboration of the Albanian emigres. 5. KLISSOURA declared the Free Albanian Committee was founded by the Intelligence Service (sic) without the concurrence of the Albanian parties. That is the reason Abas KUEFI (of the Legality Party) and Seit KRYEZIU (of the Agrarian Party) submitted an application to broaden the Committee in order to include KLISSOURA's followers (former Balli Kombetar members) and Ismail VETLATSI's Independent Party. This application was rejected by Hasan DOSTI, Zef PALI and Abas EKREMI all of whom are members of the Agrarian Party. They threatened to resign from the Committee should this expansion take place. The question of a broader Committee is still pending, however.
